“ Rest in Peace The sun will shine again upon her face. Her memories will return. She will continue to watch over Each and every child and grandchild. Watch them grow, Guide and protect them, The best she knows. So remember the good times. Not the bad. Remember the happy not the sad. She would want you to keep her close at heart. And remember for her this is a new start. A new beginning, Not the end. Please remember, She will be with you again. With a word a breeze a song. She is with you daily, And would want you to move on. When your day comes, To be by her side. She will open her arms And welcome you with pride. Rest in Peace Aunt Jane We all love you and will miss you. We will always remember and never forget.
